Bennett's Party Draws Record Crowd

By JOHN R. STARR
 Associated Press Writer
 EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Lured by catfish dinners and comedian Dave Gardner, the largest crowd of the political season turned out for Bruce Bennett Appreciation Day here Thursday.

The mob, estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000, heard, in addition to Bennett, gubernatorial candidates Frank Whitbeck and Ted Boswell and a representative of Marion Crank.

But it was obvious from the time that people began arriving at Arkansas Power & Light Park, two miles north of El Dorado on U. S. 167, that the silver-haired Bennett was the favorite of most of them.

He arrived early and worked the crowd enthusiastically. Phil Schaaf, who said he had lived in El Dorado since 1924, said the only other political crowd as big as this one gathered in 1935 when Huey P. Long came to El Dorado to campaign for Sen. Hattie Caraway.

Bennett claimed in his speech that he had drawn more people than Long did.

The candidates continued their guarded courtesy toward one another and former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who acted as a "neutral" master of ceremonies, avoided making prejudicial remarks about any of them.

Gardner declared himself to be "for George Wallace for president and for Bruce Bennett for governor." "That's my civil rights," he said.

The comedian spent a lot of time signing his autograph of the fans that Bennett has passed out at political rallies this year.

Gardner said he came because he and Bennett have been friends a long time, since 1953, when Bennett used to come to see Gardner's shows.

Faubus urged the crowd to treat all candidates courteously and the audience responded by giving a good round of applause even to Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, who ousted Bennett from that office two years ago.

Clarence Thornbrough, an Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. employee and former executive secretary to Faubus, thanked Bennett for the invitation to participate in his rally although Thornbrough observed, "It's a waste of time for us to be here."

Thornbrough said he supported Faubus in six campaigns,

Proper Selection of Paint Demonstrated

The first of a group of adult classes sponsored by the Blevins Home Economics Department was held Thursday, July 18 in the Home Economics Cottage with 16 in attendance. Helpful and economical hints on decorating were discussed. Information was given on the kinds and uses of wall paper, seamless flooring, choosing a color scheme, the proper method of painting, etc.

The second meeting will be held Friday July 26 in the Home Economics Cottage from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. One of the subjects to be discussed will be how to choose carpet and padding. Demonstrations will be given on painting, carpet padding, etc. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

and he conceded, "If Faubus were running, I'd support him now."

All of the speakers predicted a Democratic victory over Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in November.

Bennett, who has declined throughout the campaign to criticize his opponents, said he offered "a little bit of experience, an open-door, a good level, square head with some horse sense."

"The next nominee of the party will defeat the Republican administration," he said. Whitbeck said he had been accused by the press of backing off from his stands in favor of constitutional reform and school consolidation. "I haven't let up, I'm just not going to cram it down your throats," he said.

Boswell, the first speaker, called Gardner, Faubus and Bennett "three of the biggest names in the entertainment world."

Nothing that many Democrats deserted the party to elect Rockefeller in 1966, he said, "I am offering you a candidacy that will bring these people back because I stand for a progressive party."

Cutback Launched by P.O.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department launches the first in a series of manpower cutbacks Saturday, shortening the hours of window service and reducing the number of street corner pickups.

The department, which announced the cutbacks two weeks ago, said they were being made to conform with the manpower reductions dictated in President Johnson's income tax increase bill.

The first reductions in postal service will shorten weekend window service at first- and second-class post offices to a maximum of two hours. Collection of mail from street corner deposit boxes will be made on Sunday schedules.

Next step in the reduction of service is scheduled Aug. 2 when 97 fourth-class post offices will be closed.

Even Faubus Confused by Campaign

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The current political campaign has almost everyone confused, including former Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Faubus, in his first election analysis for Little Rock television station KTHV, said the number of Republicans running for constitutional offices had muddled the political waters.

"This is one of the hardest campaigns to judge I have ever seen," he said. "There is also the largest bloc of undecided voters I have ever seen... there are no runaways."

Faubus discounted candidates' reports of voter apathy. He said that the so-called apathy was, in his opinion, voter indecision.

Welfare Board for Crank

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Rep. Marion Crank of Foreman, who has been charged by some of his opponents for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with "haying," "Old Guard" backing, received the endorsement Thursday of five members of the state Welfare Board. The five members who issued the statement were appointed to the board by former Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Former State Sen. Clyde E. Byrd of Little Rock, one of Crank's five opponents, said at Hamburg Thursday night that any tax hike during his administration would be a supplemental tax appropriation to pay for the "deficit" caused by the administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Byrd, however, refused to place the blame squarely on Rockefeller. He said the fiscal crisis was caused by "irresponsible spending."

"I think it just slipped up on him before he knew it," Byrd said.

The five board members who issued the statement endorsing Crank are Board Chairman Eagle Street of Cave City; Dr. Roger Dickenson, Jr. of DeQueen; Max McHaney of Marquette; W. H. Capps of Searcy; and Billy Calhoun of Dermott.

"We feel Marion Crank is the candidate we can best work with, and that he is the only candidate who can restore order and harmony within the system in the best interests of the people of Arkansas and our welfare recipients," the statement said.

The members said they felt that Crank had "consistently proved to be the most knowledgeable candidate on the affairs of the state Welfare Department and is the only candidate to offer publicly a definite welfare program."

Byrd said that he considered the use of the state surplus funds to operate state agencies as a debt.

Tear Gas Breaks Riot at Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Police said they used tear gas Thursday night to break up a group of disorderly persons in the city's predominantly Negro central area.

Officers said the tear gas was used when a group of 50 to 75 youths gathered across the street from Garfield High School. Patrolmen moved in after the gas grenade was fired and the crowd dispersed.

peacekeeper was saying to a different crowd on the same corner. "So why would we sell 'em to him so cheap? Every time you bring whitey in here, he shoots a bunch of us down."

The youths argued back for a while, but eventually left the area, as had other potentially troublesome crowds before them. This, committee members said, the short-run effects were good, and the long-run effects, they hope will be a pride in black neighborhoods that will prevent burning them down.

They are not planting new thoughts about police, they say, just capitalizing on thoughts that are already there.

Such thinking is more common in America's big city slums that most people realize. Almost identical arguments have been used in peacekeeping attempts in San Francisco, Tampa, Fla.; Harlem, Washington, D.C.; and Louisville, Ky.

Their potential effectiveness is tacitly acknowledged in the fact that in each case, moderate Negro leaders have supported the programs.

"I supported the responsibility adopted by the black community in its attempt to regain peace and order," said Charles Lucas, a candidate for Congress from Cleveland.

nism and said it was impossible to understand why these were not suppressed.

Usually reliable sources said they understood the decision in Prchlik's case had not the unanimous backing of the 11-member presidium.

Liberal Communist intellectuals voiced alarm over this indication of yielding to pressure from abroad at a time when popular support for the Czechoslovak party chief Alexander Dubcek, had reached a new peak.

Editors of Literarni Listy, a writers weekly and influential mouthpiece of the liberal elite, prepared an extra with an open letter calling on party leaders to negotiate and explain, "but unilaterally defend the road on which we have started and which we will not leave alive."

Prchlik on July 15 told a news conference there should be a revision of the Moscow-dominated Warsaw Pact to give the other members an equal voice with the Soviets.

Warm, Humid Weather to Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Warm and humid weather mingled with scattered thundershowers that hovered over the state all week is expected to continue through the weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said today that a high pressure system still remains over most of the south and southeastern United States, blocking any movement of weather systems into the area.

Measurable rainfall activity was limited over the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today to Walnut Ridge, which recorded .24 of an inch.

Low temperatures reported around the state this morning ranged from 58 degrees at Fayetteville to 79 at Blytheville. Highs Thursday ranged from 88 at Walnut Ridge to 94 at Blytheville.

A resident of the area said the disturbance on Chicago's North Side began after a group of young Negroes listened to a talk described as inflammatory.

A newspaper photographer was beaten, and about 100 youths invaded the supermarket, the front of which was still boarded as the result of an earlier disturbance.

Shotgun-armed police halted the invasion, but the youths harassed a fire department station and pelted passing vehicles with rocks and bottles.

A warehouse in the Erie, Pa., Negro area was firebombed and police and firemen were pelted with rocks and bottles when they responded to the alarm.

Police said a Negro militant, Bennie Wall, was arrested after he threatened to shoot a police captain. They said Wall, who was found to be unarmed, was charged with inciting to riot and released under $500 bond.

Police in Seattle's predominantly Negro central area used tear gas to break up a group of disorderly persons after a truck was set on fire.

The driver told police a group of about 20 youths approached his vehicle and tossed firebombs. He said he was threatened with robbery, but was able to escape and make his way to a fire station.

In prospect he has in mind the building of a world chain of swank restaurants.

"We're still living in an affluent society, and anyway what else is there but optimism?"

What are his guidelines in opening a new restaurant or rebuilding one that isn't doing well?

"An old restaurateur once told me there are only three secrets of success in this business — location, location, and location," replied Jerry.

"But I think that, besides location and luck, you must create restaurants that have a distinctive character, theme, or personality."

"You're competing against processed foods in the home and home television. To lure people out you have to give them more than a good meal. You have to make dining out a total experience, a feeling of luxury and glamor."

"Selection of personnel is a major problem, too, as it is in any industry. It's a personal contact business, not a mail order business."

"Not everyone is fitted for it. You have to be pleasant, dedicated and have a gregarious nature. You have to enjoy the work almost more than you do your private life."

Like most successful restaurateurs, Jerry has shown he has other key characteristics—taste, tact, and a creative talent.

At home he tends to stay out of his kitchen.

"I know what real cooking is, but I don't do much of it myself."

Arkansas is on the brink of financial disaster.

We're almost broke.

Softening Treatment
For those with dry, sensitive skin, try this soft treatment: Dissolve powdered milk (equivalent of one quart) into your bath water and add a half-cup of rock salt and two capfuls of baby oil. Your skin will respond to this babying.

Inexpensive Luxury
Luxury doesn't have to cost a small fortune. For a scented after-bath rubdown, simply add a small amount of your favorite perfume to a bottle of baby oil and shake well. Right after your bath, while your skin is still warm and pores are still open, smooth the perfumed oil lightly all over your body. Let your skin absorb the oil for a few minutes, then towel off excess.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MR. AND MRS. LEE ROY CHANCE

Miss Donna Ann Carter became the bride of Lee Roy Chance on Friday, July 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Nazarene Church of Hope. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carter of Abilene, Tex., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Chance of Hope were united in marriage by the Rev. George Prentice.

Double-ring vows were exchanged before an altar enhanced with greenery, baskets of apricot-colored gladiolus, and wrought-iron, 5-branched candelabra. Mrs. Billy Martin provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Carter wore a floor-length satin gown of Empire design with a lace bodice and long, fitted sleeves. With the round neckline, she wore a strand of pearls. A single, satin rose, lilies of the valley, and seed pearls formed the headress which held her veil in place. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations and fleur d'amour.

Mrs. Jacky Willett of Washington, Mo., was the bride's only attendant. She wore a street-length dress of apricot-colored crepe with a matching coronet in her hair. Her flowers were white gladiolus.

Larry Webb of McCaskill was the groom's best man, Jacky Willett of Washington, Mo., and Tommy Corburn of Hope lighted the candles before the ceremony and also served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a green summer frock with black accessories, and the groom's mother wore beige and brown with matching accessories. Each wore a white pom mum.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church with the bride's parents as hosts. Silver wedding bells centered the serving table, where Mrs. Walter Chance cut the cake and Miss Floy Honea poured the punch. Mrs. Orville Hoelscher presided over the bride's book.

For a short wedding trip, the bride wore a black, white, and yellow ensemble and pinned fleur d'amour from her wedding bouquet at her shoulder. Mr. and Mrs. Chance are now at home in Guernsey, and he is associated with O. B. Chance Roofing Contractor.

AP Movie-Television Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Show Biz notes from the 50th state—
Merlon Brando appears ready to go back to work. After the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the actor passed up the starring role in Elia Kazan's "The Arrangement" to devote his time to civil rights. Stopping over in Honolulu en route from Tahiti Island to Paris, Brando said he expects to begin work soon on "The Rebellion," to be filmed in Europe.

"The director is Gillo Pontecorvo, who made 'Battle of Algiers,'" said the actor. "He's one of those new directors who doesn't give a damn about stars or anything but his film. He's energetic and full of ideas; I haven't worked with a director like that in years, and I'm looking forward to it!"

The late Kuli Lee, already an island legend although he died only two years ago, will get the filmbig treatment under a deal set by Honolulu Advertiser columnist Eddie Sherman. He secured rights to Lee's life story from the songwriter's estate, and producer Leonard Freeman has taken an option on the biography.

Kuli Lee was the brilliant, rebellious island boy who wrote "One Paddle, Two Paddle" and "I'll Remember, You." "Ain't No Big Thing," and other songs which helped propel Don Ho to national fame. Lee died of cancer in his twenties.

A location scout from the Mirisch Brothers company visited here recently to hunt scenery for a sequel to "Hawaii." The producers are apparently going ahead with plans to continue the James Michener saga with the Chinese and Japanese portions of the novel, which many readers consider the best part.

Many persons consider "Hawaii" a flop because it drew almost uniformly bad reviews. But it appears to have been one of those movies that nobody liked but the public. "Hawaii" was a big money-maker for the Mirisches and United Artists. So there is little wonder that a sequel is planned.

Hawaii is becoming increasingly popular as a background for television commercials. The reason is not merely to capture the islands' scenic beauty in color; the film makers can also escape some of the stringent terms for actors by not shooting on the mainland.

Maggie Parker, lone female lead of the new "Hawaii Five-O" series, comes from an unlikely background for an actress. Born to a proper Bostonian family, she took a master's degree in education at Boston University. Four years ago she turned down the position of dean of women at a new California

by Helen Bittel

LEGAL AGE FOR MARRIAGE
Dear Helen: In your column several years ago I read that somewhere in the United States the legal marriage age, with parents consent, was 12 for girls, 14 for boys. Is this still true, and in what state? — JUST CURIOUS

Dear Just: According to the current World Almanac, New Hampshire has the lowest listed legal age for marriage — 13 for girls, 14 for boys, but this must be not only with parents' but court consent. Several states make special concessions on marriage age upon request by the court. — H.

Dear Helen: Plenty has been written about the unwed mother. How about some much-needed advice and comfort for the parents of a girl who "had to get married." I'm so crushed by this that life does not seem worth living.

Our daughter was raised properly, by loving parents who were not too strict and not too permissive. We were a family that prayed together and played together as well. We don't know what went wrong, but obviously we failed somewhere.

How do we pick up the pieces and go on, now that his has happened to our daughter? — UNHAPPY MOM

Dear Mom: The best way to answer your letter is with another I received recently. Like you, this mother thought at first, "How can I bear the disgrace?"

"How can we live with our lost hope of college... career... a lovely wedding for our daughter?"

But then she caught herself up short. "Here," she wrote, "We were thinking of ourselves and our disappointments and shame. We were so tied up with self-pity and college to pursue an acting career in Hawaii. Despite the odds, she has managed to earn a good living in radio, television, commercials and films. Now she is destined for stardom if the "Five-O" series succeeds.

Recent entertainment figures in the Islands: Helen Hayes, visiting son James MacArthur, co-star of "Hawaii Five-O"; Nancy Sinatra, filming for a new television special and not visiting her ex, Tommy Sands; Betty Grable, here for a stand in "Guys and Dolls"...

James Arness dropped his Garbo habits and gabbed with the press when his catamaran finished first in the trans-Pacific race. His fellow television star, Buddy Ebsen, came in two days later but won the race because of the way the cats were handicapped.

regrets that we almost forgot a wedding should be happy, if the couple is in love — even if it's a "have-to."

As soon as we left off the blame-placing and concentrated on our daughter, our world righted itself again. We came to see these two as young people who wanted to do the right thing but couldn't face the long wait until college graduation. We saw THEIR disappointments and misery, and recognized their courage in facing things together. And so my husband and I resolved there would be no more long faces or red eyes: If these kids wanted each other, we'd show them our love — and our pride in them. And we wouldn't wring our hands over "where we went wrong" or "how it might have been, if only..."

I can't say the kids' lives have been all roses, but they're still in love, and so happy with their little girl. Our son-in-law has a job, and is getting his college courses wherever he can. When our grandchild gets a little older, our daughter will work part time to help them both through school. They have long-range ambitions, and they're realizing them together. I like to think that the parents' attitude, on both sides, helped a little. Had we given in to our first reactions, the children might have gone in to marriage with a different outlook — one of failure. — HAPPY MOTHER AND GRANDMOTHER

Dear Helen: You asked if any of your readers had received prizes in those "You may have already won..." sweepstakes contests, when you check the box marked "No, I don't want the product."

I always mark the "No" box and return. And I've won three different prizes. — LUCKY

Dear Helen: Yes, my lucky number DID win, even though I did not buy the magazine. I didn't get the "trip around the world," but I got a nice camera. — ANOTHER LUCKY

Dear Helen: I used to think it was just wishful thinking when I returned those "lucky numbers" with the cards marked "No."

In a recent one, you are requested to return your number in the enclosed stamped envelope. On the back of the envelope are boxes for your "Yes," or "No."

I enclosed a note inside my "No" - marked envelope saying I doubted that it would even be opened, since I wasn't buying the product; and if I received a reply it would prove my suspicions were unfounded.

I received a reply almost immediately, stating the company would send me a list of winners as soon as ALL numbers had been checked, and it was not necessary to buy in order to win.

Which proves these contests are legit.

P.S. I wasn't among the winners! — WALTER

Dear Helen: I am receiving every book that reaches Number One on the best seller list for one year. This as a prize in a lucky number contest. And I marked the "No" box. — DAVID

EAST SECOND STREET BLOCKADE?

Unbelievable, demoralizing, confusing, ill-conceived and utterly fantastic!

These are only some of the feelings and reactions of property owners on East Second street and also Edgewood street to a proposed Missouri Pacific Railway overpass bridge recommended by the Arkansas Highway Department.

The proposed bridge, stretching from the railroad to East Third street, would pass over East Second at about waist height, definitely blocking traffic on this vital street . . . and that is what has residents on this street in an "uproar"!

It's all part of a north-south route running all the way from Interstate 30 on the eastern approach to Hope to a point near the Red River Technical Vocational school where it links up with Highway 29.

After passing over the railroad, the proposed route cuts a disruptive swath south on Edgewood all the way to East 16th. At this point it would cut across badly needed public school property, including part of the High School track and practice football field. From there it would continue on south.

One irate citizen said that blocking East Second street alone would create a "Berlin Wall" right here in Hope, U.S.A. The immediate effect would be to "dead-end" a vital street and leave property values badly depressed throughout the area.

In addition to that, the blockade would hamper and restrict ambulance service so vital to saving lives when seconds count. It would hamper and restrict fire and police protection, postoffice service, and a great number of other essential services.

Persons using the street would be unable to get over the bridge, under the bridge, around the bridge, and if earth-filled embankments were included for part of the support of the structure, it would be difficult to even see over the bridge from ground-level.

Pedestrian traffic, forced to East Third street enroute to downtown Hope, would face an added hazard. Many sections of sidewalk on Third street have long vanished, eaten up by a shopping center, by filling stations, restaurants, more filling stations, used car lots, and still more filling stations.

The "Edgewood Plan" is known locally as the "million-dollar route". Two local real estate brokers have estimated it would require that amount of money to purchase homes and clear right-of-way. Where is the city going to get one-million dollars? Is Urban Renewal lurking in the background?

When this plan first became known with the publication by the Arkansas Highway Planning Division of the proposed route with detailed map the latter part of May, a protest group from the Cornelius Heights area appeared before the City Board of Directors and raised such a howl, the City then hired two independent engineers in an effort to find alternate routes.

After a month's study and $1100.00 expense to the city, the independent engineers of Little Rock, moved up East Second street from Edgewood and then came up with the "Walker Street" plan. The bridge, starting on East Third at Walker street in a northerly direction to the railroad, would then pass over East Second in the middle of the 600 block, taking about five homes in one spot and then would continue north, up, up and over the railroad.

The effect of the "Walker Street Plan" would merely be moving the "Berlin Blockade" two blocks nearer the downtown section. To East Second street property owners, this would be no better than the "Edgewood Plan".

The great majority of property owners, if not 100 percent united, don't want a "Berlin Blockade" anywhere on East Second street PERIOD!

A solution to this problem, we think, would be to move the Missouri Pacific overhead bridge to a more sensible and rightful place— further east. We would suggest an open and convenient starting point on Highway 67 East.

The route then could head through open fields and connect with Interstate 30, eliminating alot of turmoil and destruction in its path. A great deal of money for right-of-way expense could be saved. There would be far fewer heartaches, anxieties, frustrations, and above all it would prevent a divided community and widespread and depressed residential property values.

There's much more that could be said about the "Edgewood and Walker Street" plans. Purpose of this information is to alert all property owners and put the Arkansas Highway Planning Division and also the local Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Board of Directors on notice that we, the following citizens and property owners here and now OPPOSE BOTH the "Edgewood Plan" and the "Walker Street Plan".

I-30 is a true by-pass of Hope. A 4-lane high-speed super access to I-30 is something else, and it belongs on Highway 67. That would eliminate the East Second street and Edgewood dilemma. We believe such a plan would meet local public acceptance . . . and prevent our community from being split wide open! After all, what's .5 of a mile further East?

Unknowns Take Lead at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Willie Lee's flustered over the putting woes of their new hero, U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, five of pro golf's virtual unknowns swept into the opening-round lead Thursday in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic.

Locked in the tie for first heading into today's second round were Pete Brown of Pomona, Calif., J.C. Sneed of Hot Springs, Va., Jim Colbert of Overland Park, Kan., Harry Toscano of New Castle, Pa., and Bob Stanton of Sydney, Australia, who now lives in New Orleans.

All had five-under-par 66s over the 6,702 Keller golf course. First-place money is worth $20,000.

None of the leaders is ranked in the top 60 money winners this year on the PGA tour, and only Brown has ever won a PGA tournament—the WACO Turner at Ardmore, Okla., in 1964.

Trevino, who claimed he "didn't make one putt," soared to a three-over 74 to fall eight strokes behind the leaders. He needed a big recovery today to keep from being cut as the field was to be trimmed to the low 70 pros plus ties.

"I just came up here to see all my friends," Trevino quipped after his mediocre round. "I don't need the money."

Trevino and Tom Weiskopf are the only golfers among the PGA's 14 leading money winners this year who showed up for the Classic.

Weiskopf still was very much in contention. He was tied for second with Dave Eichelberger and Monte Sanders with 67s—one stroke behind the leaders. Seven more were locked for ninth at 68, while another 18 were tied at 69.

Big Leagues to Japan? Possibility

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Imagine, if you can, a baseball series between the Tokyo Giants and the Peking Reds with the Los Angeles Dodgers waiting in the wings to take on the winner.

A pipe dream? A fantasy? Not at all, Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert said today to his very close friend, Toru Shoriki, president of the Yomiuri Giants, perennial Japanese baseball champions.

"My aim is to see that baseball goes global, that it's played by every country in the world," Eckert added. "Only last night I was telling Ted Sorenson (adviser to the late President John Kennedy) that it's my aim to see baseball taken behind the Bamboo Curtain into Communist China."

"With supersonic travel in the offing, I see baseball going to every corner of the world, including Communist countries. It would do much to solve world tensions."

Shoriki, prominent Tokyo publisher and sportsman, paid a courtesy call on the commissioner, who was Japan's guest on a visit of the Los Angeles Dodgers two years ago.

They talked enthusiastically about their favorite subject.

"Attendance is higher in Japan than it was a year ago," Shoriki said. "Baseball still is the most popular sport in Japan. Soccer is coming up. Wrestling is going down. Golf is staying steady."

Shakeup in Ranks of Pro Gridders

ROSS Fichtner's fortunes are looking up and Ron Kramer's have taken a turn for the worse. Sam McDowell stepped on a scale to have his fortune told and it didn't cost him a penny—only a professional football contract.

Fichtner, 29, dropped several days ago by the Cleveland Browns after a racial incident, signed Thursday with the New Orleans Saints.

The Detroit Lions gave the 33-year-old Kramer, an 11-year tight end, his unconditional release.

And the Miami Dolphins decided to let McDowell go after the rookie from Southwest Missouri weighed in at 375 pounds, a mere 80 more than the amount at which his contract stipulated he should report.

Fichtner, an eight-year safetyman, was the second veteran to join the Saints recently. Dave Parks, an end who played out his option with San Francisco, signed with the National Football League club last week.

The Browns placed Fichtner, who is white, and John Woolen, a Negro guard, on waivers after a dispute which arose when the Browns' Negro players were not invited to participate in a golf tournament which Fichtner arranged.

Woolen, a nine-year veteran, has not disclosed his plans.

Kramer, one of the league's premier performers during eight seasons with Green Bay and three with Detroit, was hampered by injuries last year. But his career record shows 229 receptions for 3,272 yards.

"I may make a few calls to some other clubs," he said. "But then again I may decide to call it quits and hang them up."

Coach Joe Schmidt said he planned to carry two tight ends—Jim Gibbons, 31, a long-time Lion, and rookie Charlie Sanders, the team's No. 3 draft choice.

Although McDowell, a 6-foot-7 offensive tackle, was told to report at 295 or less, the Dolphins must have had their doubts. The team's brochure lists him at 335 pounds.

"We felt for McDowell's own good that he should not play this fall," said Joe Thomas, the club's personnel director.

Elsewhere, defensive end Leo Carroll, who left the Atlanta Falcons' training camp without explanation last week, informed the team he was quitting. The 260-pounder from San Diego State was the Falcons' top draft pick in 1967 but was injured during a pre-season game and sat out the entire campaign.

The Pittsburgh Steelers signed the last of their rookie holdouts—No. 1 draft choice Mike Taylor of Southern California. They said the offensive tackle had undergone a knee operation without letting them know about it. The team doctor said Taylor's knee was in good shape.

Bob Gibson Racks Up His 11th in Row

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Patience finally paid off for Jim Northrup and Joe Torre, but against Bob Gibson it appears almost useless.

National League hitters have been waiting for almost two months—since May 28—for Gibson to lose, but the hard-firing St. Louis right-hander is having none of it. In fact, it's almost as difficult just to score a run against him as it is to beat him.

The Philadelphia Phillies are the latest left watching and waiting as the veteran hurler cut them down 5-0 Thursday night on five hits for his 11th consecutive victory and eighth shutout of the season.

Now with a 14-5 record, Gibson has yielded more than three runs only once in those 19 decisions, and in his last 92 innings he has allowed only two runs.

So the wait goes on against Gibson, but for Northrup and Torre, it has finally ended.

The slugging Northrup waited three weeks—since July 4—before breaking a home run slump Thursday night and Torre drummed his figures for five weeks—since June 20—before he connected.

Northrup broke loose for two blasts, driving in three runs, and helped the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 rain-shortened victory over the Washington Senators in the only American League contest.

Torre unloaded a three-run clout in Atlanta's 4-2 triumph over the New York Mets.

In the only other game in the National League, Cincinnati scored a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who waited and waited for the clutch hit and never got it.

Gibson left little hope that the Phillies would be the ones to break him down. He struck out six, walked one and allowed only one runner as far as second base in posting his 12th complete game in a row.

His victory string and this 33rd shutout of his career each tied Cardinals' team records.

Chris Short, 9-10, had the misfortune to be the opposing pitcher and the Cardinals touched him for two runs in the fourth inning on Johnny Edwards' single.

Two more scored in the fifth on Orlando Cepeda's double and Mike Shannon's hit, and Gibson doubled in the final run in the eighth as the Cardinals swept the four-game series, extending Philadelphia's losing streak to seven games.

The victory, by the way, also kept St. Louis' National League lead at 12½ games over Atlanta.

Detroit, wrapped in a 6-9 slump since the All-Star break, raised its American League lead to 5½ games over idle Baltimore entering a three-game weekend series against the Orioles.

Northrup, who says hitting a home run "tends to make you overswing," brought the Tigers in with a two-run shot in the first inning and a leadoff belt in the third, giving him 15 for the season and 59 runs batted in.

The homers made it easy for Joe Sparna, 8-9, who walked six men but allowed only a single by Paul Casanova before rain ended the contest after 6½ innings.

Atlanta had its troubles against the Mets' Dick Selma, who was coasting behind a one-hitter in a scoreless duel against Phil Niekro until his defense let him down.

With two out in the sixth inning, Felipe Alou tripled and third baseman Ed Charles booted a ground ball to break the tie, Hank Aaron's infield hit followed and then Torre unloaded his eighth homer.

"I knew it would come, I knew I could hit one," said the burly catcher of Atlanta's first homer in 11 days.

Niekro raised his record to 10-7 with a six-hitter while Selma fell to 8-6.

George Culver, who pitched six innings to bring his record to 8-9, and Clay Carroll allowed Pittsburgh 13 hits, but stranded 13 runners in a frustrating evening for the Pirates.

The Reds won their sixth straight game with two out in the fourth inning against Bob

Montreal Shrugs Off Buffalo Bid

MONTREAL (AP) — Reacting to reports that a Buffalo, N.Y., group is ready to step in should Montreal not be able to participate in the expanded National League, sponsors of this city's newly acquired baseball franchise said Thursday night it still is too early to count Montreal out.

Doubts that Montreal will be fielding a team in 1969 were first raised Wednesday when a second member of the original seven-man syndicate backing the new baseball entry withdrew his investment.

He was Montreal financier J. Louis Levesque, and his pullout came only a day after another backer, Marc Bourgie, a wealthy funeral director, withdrew his sponsorship.

Buffalo, one of the unsuccessful bidders for a franchise when Montreal and San Diego were added to the expanded 12-team league last May 27, responded to these developments by putting in a new bid in the event that Montreal interests default.

Bob Swades, a lawyer for Major League for Buffalo, Inc., advised the National League Expansion Committee and league President Warren Giles that Buffalo "can come forward immediately with all the funds, all the facilities and the organization required."

But Charles Bronfman, chairman of the board for the embryo Montreal team, said: "Everybody is working hard and we'll be there when the times comes."

Lorne Webster, another of the remaining five backers, said he has been optimistic from the beginning and that "new businesses always have trouble."

Bronfman said he is not discouraged by the withdrawal of sponsorship by the two men, who represented an investment of $2,500,000 in an estimated $10,000,000 original franchise fee expected to increase to $14,000,000.

He and Webster and the other Veale, 8-10, on consecutive singles by Johnny Bench, Tommy Helms and Don Pavletich and a double by Leo Cardenas.

Father and Son Lead at Odessa

by MIKE LOUHAN
ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — The $35,000 Odessa pro-am golf tournament rolled into the second round early today with the accent on youth and a father-son team in the lead.
Earl Stewart Jr., Dallas, and his amateur son, University of Texas shotmaker Chip, held a one-stroke lead over the 100-team field.
"Got a helluva partner, don't you?" a fan asked Stewart Thursday, after he and Chip had slashed nine strokes from the Odessa Country Club's regulation 72.
"Damn right," he responded with a smile. "I've known that for a long time... Chip played an extreme fine round today."
The younger Stewart dropped birdie putts of 15, 20, 26, 3, 2, and 22 feet in collecting six of his teams nine birdies. The final one came dramatically at the 18th green.

It moved them out of a three-way tie for second with the brothers Messengale, pro Don and amateur Rik, and former Masters champ Gay Brewer and John Paul Cain.
The Messengales, defending champions, tacked together a 29-35-64, dipping six under par through six holes before cooling off a bit.
Brewer-Cain had a 31-33-64. In both instances, it was strong performances by the amateurs that turned the trick.

Man-Wife Crew Win Sail Race

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gerry Callahan of Trenton, Ohio, with his wife as crew, won the first two races Thursday in the V-Flyer National Championship and spurred into the lead with one race to go.
The Callahans finished 10th in the third race Thursday but still have a 3-point lead on John Evans of Shreveport, La., who also employs his wife as crew.
There will be one race today and the crews will get to throw out their worse finish. The winner will be determined by the team with the best five performances.
John Baker of Savannah, Ga., with his 17-year-old daughter Amy as crew, is third with 438 points. The Callahans have 452 and the Evans' have 449.
The Callahans have an advantage since they can throw out their 10th if they do better. The Evans can discard a fifth and the Bakers a seventh.

Carol Mann Leads Pack at Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Carol Mann played under unusual strain but finished as the first-round leader Thursday in the $20,000 Supertest Women's Open Golf Championship.
"The pressure was really on because I felt I won the tournament last Sunday the wrong way and I had to prove something," the 6-foot-3 blonde said after carding a four-under-par 69 for a two-stroke lead.
Miss Mann, of Towson, Md., was declared the winner of the Cincinnati Open last weekend after Marilyn Smith, the actual winner, was assessed a two-stroke penalty for slow play.
Marlene Stewart Streiff of Toronto, veteran Canadian amateur, tied for second place with Pam Barnett of Charlotte, N.C., and Sandra Spuzich, of Indianapolis, Ind., at two-under 71.
Only two other golfers, Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., managed to break par over the 6,448-yard Bayview Golf and the Country Club course. Each had a 72.

Travelers Return to First Place

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Arkansas Travelers, with the aid of the Memphis Blues, climbed back into first place Thursday night in the Eastern Division of the Texas League.
The Travs' Santiago Guzman stranded 10 Dallas-Fort Worth runners as Arkansas beat the Spurs 6-0. The Blues, paced by Roy Foster, defeated Shreveport 6-3 after the game was delayed twice by rain.
Guzman, who pushed his record to 10-5, gave up five hits. John Sipin gave him all the support he needed with a bases-loaded triple in the first inning.
The Travs added two runs in the fourth on singles by Guzman, Quique Rivera and Boots Day and a theft of home by Rivera. Leron Lee drove in the final run with a seventh-inning triple.
Foster doubled, tripled and homered in the Blues' victory. His two-run homer in the first got Memphis rolling. The Blues picked up three unearned runs in the fourth. Shreveport rallied with three runs in the fifth but could not catch the Blues.
Amarillo blanked El Paso 7-0 and Albuquerque shut out San Antonio 4-0 in other Texas League action.

Mathis Is Victor Over Beattie

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Buster Mathis, the onetime fat man of the heavyweight boxers, plans to lose more weight and enjoy a vacation after cutting down giant Jim Beattie in their scheduled 10-round match Thursday night.
Fighting at 228½ pounds, the lightest in his pro career, Mathis stalked Beattie for six rounds, then floored his heavier, more experienced opponent twice in the seventh to score a technical knockout.
"I felt even stronger and I was even faster," said Mathis, who weighed about 285 when he turned pro three years ago. "I want to go down to 210."
Mathis, 24, of Grand Rapids, Mich., notched his 19th knockout in 26 pro fights. His only loss was an 11th round technical knockout to Joe Frazier a few months ago, in which Mathis maintains he was beaten by exhaustion. He weighed 243½ then and decided to peel off more pounds to gain speed and stamina.
The 6-foot-9 Beattie, who weighed 244½, lost his fifth match in 35 fights and his fourth by a knockout.

U.S., German Horsemen Winners

LONDON (AP) — Mary Chapot of the United States' Olympic equestrian team and Hans Winkler, captain of West Germany's jumping team, have captured two of the most coveted trophies in the world at the Royal International Horse Show.
Mrs. Chapot, of Wallpack, N.J., won the Queen Elizabeth II Trophy while Winkler took the King George V Gold Cup. Both had to win jump-offs.
Mrs. Chapot, riding White Lightning, defeated England's Annell Drummond in their jump-off.
Winkler, riding Enigk, and England's John Kidd, on Grey Owl, were the only riders to complete clear rounds on the tight Wembley course. In the jump-off, Grey Owl tumbled a wall and a fence for eight faults while Winkler eased Enigk over all the obstacles.
Winkler's victory was his second major triumph on Enigk in two nights. Wednesday he shared first place in the pulsance competition.

Nelson R. Calls for Asian Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says as president he would work toward international creation of "a new world order" based on East-West cooperation instead of conflict.
The Republican presidential contender said he would begin a dialogue with Red China, if elected, to "improve the possibilities of accommodations" with that country as well as the Soviet Union.
Rockefeller said he would work to end the arms race and said this country and the Soviets must cooperate to prevent small wars in areas such as the Middle East from mushrooming into big ones.

Despite a long Communist record of broken commitments and the fact that Communist ideology remains hostile, he said, "we must also face the fact that the imperatives of the modern age impose the necessity for peace."
"We have no need to be mesmerized by our perils," Rockefeller said. "The possibility to build the new order we all seek is limited only by our imagination and dedication."

But he said there is no way to know when a "basic accommodation" would become possible. He said a new world order must be established by international cooperation; it cannot be created by any one nation.
Rockefeller spoke to the International Platform Association, an organization of professional lecturers.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, a Democratic presidential aspirant, indicated meanwhile he will drop hopes of meeting with North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris to learn first hand the prospects for settlement of the Vietnam war.

McCarthy said in view of the Honolulu communique issued Sunday by President Johnson and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, "the chances of my doing any good are significantly reduced."

He said the communique indicating this country will not further reduce its military action in South Vietnam until North Vietnam makes some concessions laid out a position "quite different" from his own.

"Consequently," McCarthy said, "to come in and talk to the same people they're talking to would seem to be kind of an intrusion. The possibility of going might be interpreted as attempting to negotiate somehow over the heads of the administration..."
McCarthy made the comments in Boston before addressing the largest crowd drawn by any candidate this year—35,875 according to the turnstile counters at Fenway Park, home of the Boston Red Sox.
Chicago Mayor Richard Daley

Thursday quoted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as saying he was considering whether to make himself available for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.
Daley said the Massachusetts senator made the comment during a telephone conversation. Kennedy has made no public response to talk by some Democrats that he would boost the party's chances for victory as the vice presidential nominee.
But the New York Times said today Kennedy has drafted a statement taking himself out of consideration for the nomination.
The story from Washington by Executive Editor James Reston said Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is convinced Kennedy will not be available and is considering McCarthy and Kennedy's brother-in-law Sargent Shriver for the No. 2 spot.

On the Republican side, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., endorsed Rockefeller for the GOP presidential nomination and an aide to Richard M. Nixon charged the announcement was prompted by the "lure of the vice presidency."
Nixon said Thursday night, put his 1968 Plymouth across the finish line a car length ahead of Bud Moore of Charlotte, N.C., who piloted a 1966 Ford.

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Richard Petty won the 100-mile Smoky 200 stock car race at Smoky Mountain Raceway Thursday night for his second victory on the half-mile track in two months.

The Hour of Decision

Arkansas' financial condition is unstable... our reputation has been damaged by scandals and the ineptitudes of a Chief Executive who spread the news throughout the nation.

Candidates for Governor have cited dozens of problems — each saying he would try to correct them. Solutions to serious and complex problems cannot be presented in thirty-minute broadcasts, radio spots, or in a few columns in the newspapers.

Solutions Require Experience

Solutions to the vast problems of Arkansas require time, thought, research and planning. These solutions demand administrative experience in problem-solving.

A housewife, a young lawyer, an ex-attorney general, a politician, or the ex-manager of the state exposition have not had the training or experience necessary to cope with Arkansas' crisis today. Frank Whitbeck, who provided the leadership to build one of Arkansas' great businesses, has the training and experience we need.

Make your decision for FRANK WHITBECK.

Many Hurt in Chicago Store Riot

By EDWARD W. RUNDEN

Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — More than a dozen persons were injured

Thursday night when Negro youths vandalized a food store on Chicago's North Side. In suburban Maywood another crowd smashed store windows after police used tear gas to disperse

demonstrators at the village hall.

Twenty-five persons were arrested in Maywood. Three were held on disorderly conduct charges after the Chicago disturbances.

In Maywood, an integrated city of 30,000 15 miles west of Chicago's downtown section, trouble started after a meeting of a local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Discussions at the meeting centered on the lack of a swimming pool in Maywood—a long-standing complaint of the community's 10,000

Negroes.

A police spokesman said after the NAACP meeting about 300

Negro youths marched a mile to the Maywood Village Hall

where the village board was meeting on the second floor.

Officials refused to permit the entire group to enter the meeting. Police, whose headquarters is on the first floor, asked the youths to disperse. After they refused and became boisterous

police hurled tear-gas canisters

at them.

One of the youths picked up a canister and hurled it back into the village hall, Police Sgt.

Grady Rivers said. Policemen

in the hall donned gas masks.

Most of the youths headed for the nearby downtown section and smashed store windows, overturned park benches and hurled objects at passing vehicles, injuring 10 persons, none seriously.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was quickly imposed. Reinforcements from surrounding communities, some wielding submachine guns, moved in.

Maywood Police Chief Berner

Kellough said those arrested, all

Negroes, would be prosecuted for mob action and violation of curfew.

The disturbance on Chicago's

North Side started after a large group of young Negroes listened to talk described as inflamma-

Racial At a Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is a summary of overnight racial violence:

CLEVELAND—Mayor Carl

Stokes imposed a dusk-to-dawn

curfew. National Guardsmen and white police ordered back to the Negro slums to enforce the edict arrested 30 persons for looting or curfew violations.

Several small fires broke out on the East Side.

CHICAGO—More than a dozen persons were injured as Negro youths vandalized a supermarket on the city's North Side.

Three persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

MAYWOOD—A crowd in the integrated Chicago suburb of 30,000 smashed store windows

after police used tear gas to disperse demonstrators outside the village hall. There were 25 arrests.

SEATTLE—Police used tear gas to break up a group of disorderly persons in the city's predominantly Negro central area. Earlier a panel truck was set on fire.

ry, according to Sid Bennett, 35,

a Negro who lives in the area.

"About 8 to 10 men, some dressed in African-style garb

were inciting the crowd," said

Bennett. "They were outside agitators."

Bennett, a karate expert, resued Mel Larson, 54, a Sun-

Times photographer who was beaten around the face and suffered chest injuries, including possible broken ribs by a Negro gang. He was reported in fair condition.

Some 100 youths invaded the supermarket, a colonial-styled structure that was involved in disturbances after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The front of the store has been boarded up since the April disturbances. The supermarket has been the scene in recent weeks of picketing and boycotting by members of Operation

Breadbasket protesting against alleged exorbitant prices of the

A&P food store chain.

Several youths carried a cash register from the food store, but dropped it and ran when shotgun-wielding policemen arrived.

The cash register was locked and the $150 in the drawer wasn't taken, police said. The youths were not arrested.

The store manager, Martin

Stratton, said the youths also carried some food and liquor out of the store.

Besides invading the food store in Chicago, youths harassed a Fire Department station and pelted passing vehicles.

Ex-Candidate for Vietnam President Is Sent to Prison

ALGIERS (AP) — Eight of the 22 Israelis held in Algiers since the hijacking of an Israeli airliner may be released Saturday informed sources said today.

They said four women, two of them hostesses on the El Al jetliner—and four children would be put on a plane for Rome.

Algerian government spokesmen refused to confirm or deny the report.

The government has informed the Italian Embassy that all the captives are in good health, including the copilot who was hit on the head when three armed

Arabs hijacked the Boeing 707

jet between Rome and Tel Aviv

Tuesday and diverted it to Algiers.

Twenty-one non-Israeli passengers and two Israelis who concealed their nationality because they had dual citizenship, were released later Tuesday.

The captives include 10 crew members and 12 Israeli passengers.

The Algerian government silence apparently is due to the fact that Foreign Minister Abdel

Aziz Boufelfla is on a visit to Paris. He said his government would act "within the framework of international morality," and members of the Palestine

commando organization which hijacked the plane said they expected the Algerian government to reject their request that the Israelis be held hostage for

Arab commandos held by Israel.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli officials said their government would not be satisfied by any "piecemeal" release.

Clark Hits Motives of Fortas Foes

By STEPHEN M. AUG

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty.

Gen. Ramsey Clark says political partisanship and, in some cases, opposition to civil rights advances are the motives behind many of those who oppose the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice.

Clark, in an interview, also said the slaying of 10 persons

Tuesday in a Cleveland Negro neighborhood was "the random act of a handful of very extreme and violent-prone militants,"

and not part of a nationwide

conspiracy to cause racial unrest.

In discussing President Johnson's nomination of Fortas to move up on the Supreme Court from associate justice to succeed retiring Chief Justice Earl

Warren, Clark said that "quite clearly there is dominant in the opposition a highly partisan strain that's unfortunate. I don't believe a political affiliation should enter into the qualification for nomination."

A lot of players would manage to go down at today's spade slam. It isn't too difficult. South knows all about those thousands of Englishmen walking the streets of London with no soles to their shoes because they failed to wear pull-trumps, so South draws foresighted enough to bring an extra couple for good measure.

If East and West discard sensibly on these five trump leads, South will go down. He will go after clubs and ruff the third lead. Should those three leads clear, the suit, South would make all 13 tricks. But they won't and South will be held to a very unsatisfactory 11.

The correct line of play will bring home the bacon. South should study the hand carefully before leading to the second trick. He will see that he needs three club tricks for his contract. Therefore he won't make it if clubs break worse than 4-2.

Can he make it if they break 4-2? Yes, provided he can get to dummy to collect a trick with the fifth club.

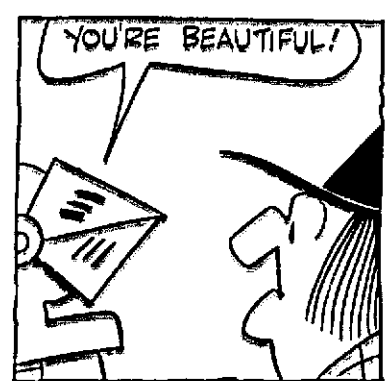

Then, operating on the principle that you play for your contract, South will promptly cash dummy's ace and king of clubs. When both opponents follow, it will be all over but the mopping up. He will ruff a club, enter dummy with the queen of trumps, ruff another club, draw the rest of the trumps and eventually get to dummy with the ace of hearts in order to cash the last club.

The whole point of this line of play is that dummy had two entries outside of the club suit and South had to plan his play to conserve both of them. One was needed to get to dummy for a fourth club lead; the other to get to dummy to cash the fifth club. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

And The Angel

... of Revelations said: "Gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe." How beautiful! How far-reaching is this challenge! It is up to us. Throughout the Bible the grape and the vine hold great spiritual meaning. They emphasize the close union between Christ and His church. We judge the vine from the fruit it bears. St. John warned us in the first place, that the branch cannot bear fruit, except it abide in the Lord. In a spiritual sense, man makes his own harvest. His reaping is strictly in accordance with how well he has taken care of the vineyard, how thoroughly he has supported the charities of the Lord, and how genuinely he has served God.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Do unto others
as you would have others do unto you.
— THE GOLDEN RULE

If you have faith
like a mustard seed...
nothing will be impossible to you.

GIs Anxious Over Third Saigon Fight

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Muddled American GIs defending the approaches to Saigon exhibit a mixture of dread, confidence and impatience as they prepare for the third battle of Saigon.

Warned by their commanders that the third offensive of the year against South Vietnam's capital may be the biggest battle of the war, quite a number voice fervent hopes that some other unit will bear the brunt of the fighting.

Sitting at the edge of a rice paddy, hands cupped around cigarettes in the moonlight, combat infantrymen don't talk about the strategic importance of the battle, how it might affect the Paris peace talks or what would happen in Saigon if the enemy again breaks through the city's outer defense perimeter.

Instead the talk is of chances for survival, whether the unit will be rotated out of a particularly dangerous area before the attack opens, whether intelligence can possibly be right about the large number of battalions facing them.

When the word first came that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regiments were massing for a new attack, it set off a low voltage feeling of excitement. But weeks later and with several enemy regiments maneuvering away from the capital, the edge of expectation is somewhat dulled. When intelligence reports of an attack in mid-July proved wrong and new estimates put D-Day as far away as September, some commanders found it difficult to keep their men up to peak performance.

"When the men haven't been in a good fight for several weeks they tend to relax. That's just what Charlie wants," the commander of one infantry company said.

Many of the men are newly arrived, and the battle may be their first major fight of the war. These men look forward to it as a personal testing under fire.

Not so Sgt. Glen Boulware of Dallas, Tex., who has nearly finished his one-year tour.

"Me, I just hope the next one holds off until I can get out of here. Enough is enough," he said.

China Paper Smashed in Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Terrorists struck in Saigon today for the second time in a week and blew up the city's largest Chinese newspaper.

Police said four young Viet Cong, two of them girls, set off a 60-pound plastic bomb in the press room of A Chau Van Quoc, the Asian Daily News, an anti-Communist paper which supports the Saigon government. No casualties were reported.

The terrorists, all armed with pistols, walked into the newspaper office just after 1 p.m. and ordered everyone out.

One girl terrorist pulled out the explosive charge concealed in a bag, planted it in the press room and fled with her companions.

U.S. Order Accepted by Pulaski

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — All federal recommendations made two months ago "to remove the vestiges of a dual school system" were accepted by the Pulaski County (Rural) School Board Thursday night.

The board, acting under the threat of losing $1.5 million in school funds if it didn't submit an acceptable plan within 10 days, voted unanimously to accept the recommendations.

Leroy Catlin, superintendent of the district, submitted a desegregation plan to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare July 2 with approval of the board that called for closing Nelson (Negro) Elementary School at Scott and Shaw (Negro) Elementary School on Conway Pike in September and to transfer seventh and eighth-grade students from Pankey (Negro) Elementary School to Robison Elementary School.

The plan also stated that the board would consider closing Pankey when money was available to build a new elementary school in the Robinson area, consider closing the Sweet Home (Negro) High School at McAlmont for the 1970-71 school year and "study the possibility" of zoning the J. C. Cook (Negro) Elementary School and Fuller Elementary School for the 1969-70 school year.

Catlin received a letter from HEW officials in Dallas Monday that said the proposed closing of Nelson and Shaw and the transfer of two grades out of Pankey was acceptable for the 1968-69 term and that the rest of the plan would be acceptable if the board would reword it to state that it would make the other changes instead of "consider" or "study" them.

The action Thursday differed from the HEW recommendations only in that the Harris High will continue to operate until 1970-71 under Catlin's plan, with the closing of Harris to depend on completion of the new Jacksonville High School.

EDITOR'S Note — ABC's "Dream House" may not be everybody's cup of afternoon tea, but whether one likes it or tunes it out, one cannot but be impressed by the tight security procedures developed to make certain that it remains an honest show with legitimate winners. Don Reid, its creator, describes them.

By DON REID
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Dream House" is the first quiz show in more than a decade to offer really lavish prizes—ranging up to a $40,000 house and homestead—and I knew I had a tiger by the tail.

The specter of the rigging scandals of the mid-50's loomed ominously over the project. We had to devise a security plan which would baffle any kind of cheating or collusion, whether intentional or accidental, by the less than 1 per cent of this world that would cheat or be guilty of collusion.

Here, briefly, are the security measures which solved our problem.

On each show, three couples — one hold-over champion and two sets of challengers — compete for prizes, leading up to a new home. Instead of bringing three couples to the studio, however, we invite five or six. The challengers are chosen by the flip of a coin. The winners go on the air while the losers are invited to return and flip again.

That way, no potential challenger and no one on the production staff knows, until moments before air time just who will appear on any program.

When they meet for the first time at the studio, the contestants are kept continuously under the eye of a network representative. They are not allowed to discuss the show amongst themselves, nor do they come into contact with any member of the staff involved with questions or prizes. That includes host Michael Darow.

Contestants are required to sign affidavits stating that they are not related by blood, marriage or personal friendship to anyone connected with the show, the network or the sponsors and advertising agencies involved, and that they understand it is a federal offense "to accept information or assistance" which would give them an advantage over other players.

Similar security measures protect the questions used on the show. Our writing staff works in an isolated office and no member of that staff is allowed in the area where potential contestants are screened and chosen. If a writer or any other member of the staff violates that rule or any rule pertaining to security we're obliged to dismiss him at once.

Only the chief writer is allowed to go to the studio, and

Marianna Mayor Bids for Congress

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Marianna Mayor Clyde Andrews says none of the seven candidates opposing him for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 1st District has had the experience he has in dealing with problems ranging from aid to farmers to participation in his presence there is necessary to check whether an ambiguous or vague answer should be scored right or wrong.

Two sets of questions are used on each telecast, both contained in one unmarked envelope. This envelope is selected from three similar envelopes containing different sets of questions and delivered to the studio daily.

A network official selects one at random from the three. The others are put back in a locked file and may not turn up for weeks or months.

All "visuals"—props and gimmicks used on the show—which might give a contestant a hint of an upcoming question are kept in a vault at the studio until air time. Every member of the staff must sign an affidavit at the end of each week, stating that he has "done nothing which could adversely affect the fairness of the games played."

Cynthia Lowry is on vacation.

...telling you that they recognize the challenges facing anyone who seeks the position.

Andrews said he was familiar with the problems of farmers in the district and had dealt with federal agencies while serving as mayor of Marianna.

Dr. Ralph Ration of Paragould, one of Andrews' opponents, said Thursday he would push for the Cache River Bayou DeView project if elected.

Ration said the river floods eight counties each year, depriving school districts of revenue and keeping more than 900,000 acres of land out of production.

"We can spend $35 million in India on family planning ... or let France owe us $6 billion but we can't seem to get a few million dollars to channel Cache River," he said.

AMERICANS who feel glum about foreign-travel restrictions can cheer up. Good old Yankee ingenuity has come to the rescue. We're bringing England's treasures over here. A U.S. oil firm's purchase of London Bridge is the latest acquisition from Britain. The 136-year-old span succumbed to the weight of 20th-century traffic and will be moved block by block to Lake Havasu City, Ariz., where it will span a man-made lake in the desert. Bought for $2,240,000, the British landmark is already being dismantled for shipment to the "colonies" where it will join such other mementoes as the Queen Mary, top left, bought by the City of Long Beach, Calif.; the Queen Elizabeth, bottom right, bought by the City of Philadelphia; and the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, which was moved stone by stone from London to Fulton, Mo., to be reconstructed as part of the Winston Churchill Memorial and Library.

Ed Kennedy Push for No. 2, Gains

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The often-slighted office of vice president is moving to the forefront of the political campaign because of two men representing the youthful, liberal and urban-minded wings of their parties.

Word from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., is considering the possibility of making himself available, accelerated a drive to put the brother of slain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in second place on the Democratic ticket.

A charge by an aide of Richard M. Nixon that the "lure of the vice presidency" had caused Sen. Charles H. Percy to endorse Nelson A. Rockefeller Thursday for the top GOP nomination put a spotlight on back stage maneuvering in the Republican camp over the second office.

Kennedy's call to Daley to discuss the latter's proposal that the Chicago Democratic convention draft the Massachusetts senator for vice president represented the first break in Kennedy's silence about burgeoning proposals to put him on the ticket.

Daley told reporters that Kennedy had called him Wednesday night after the mayor had joined several governors, senators and others in urging his nomination for vice president.

Saying that he hopes Kennedy will accept a draft, Daley added that the senator "said he was considering it." Daley has declined to take sides in the battle of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., for the presidential nomination.

But most of those who have been talking publicly about Kennedy have made it clear they think that as No. 2 man he would attract big city and liberal support in November to a ticket headed by Humphrey.

However, the New York Times in a story from Washington by Executive Editor James Reston said in its edition today that Kennedy has drafted a plain and unambiguous statement taking himself out of consideration for the vice-presidential nomination.

Humphrey, the Times said, is now convinced that Kennedy will not be available and is considering McCarthy and Kennedy's brother-in-law Sargent Shriver as his running mate.

The Times story also said that several intimates of the Kennedy family worked on the withdrawal statement and apparently the only remaining decisions when to make it public.

Kennedy and Humphrey aides declined comment on the Times report.

The situation involving Percy is a little more complicated. The Illinois senator's announcement that he will back what he called Gov. Rockefeller's "underdog" bid for the Republican presidential nomination brought a quick reaction from the Nixon camp.

Herbert G. Klein, press secretary for the former vice president, told a news conference in New York that it could only be concluded that "the lure of the vice presidency" was involved in Percy's action.

Percy himself said he is backing the New York governor because of the latter's Vietnam views and because he thinks he has a better chance to win in November than Nixon. He added that he will support whomever the GOP convention nominates.

Percy's interest in the second spot was emphasized by the disclosure that he had talked recently with his Illinois colleague, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen about it. The latter offered to present Percy's name at an informal meeting of leaders that usually precedes the presidential nominee's choice of a running mate.

The understanding was that if Nixon were nominated, Dirksen, a solid supporter of the former vice president, would put Percy's name in the pot as a gesture to his colleague.

Fulbright Shrugs Off J. Johnson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Thursday he believed a majority of the voters in Arkansas would reject charges by Jim Johnson, one of his three Democratic opponents.

Fulbright called the charges "utter trash and hogwash." It was his first response to charges by Johnson that he is the "pin-up boy of Hanoi."

"I believe the people will repudiate this man because of his irresponsible tactics," Fulbright told a news conference at Fort Smith. "If the people of Arkansas don't know me any better than what this opponent suggests, if they don't know my loyalty, then I don't know the people."

Johnson followed Fulbright to Fort Smith and leveled his usual charges at the junior senator.

Bobby K. Hayes of Calico Rock, another of Fulbright's Democratic opponents, said he made a remark Wednesday concerning the party's loyalty oath in a joking manner.

Hayes said he would not support Fulbright or Jim Johnson if one of them should win the Democratic nomination.

Hayes said at El Dorado Thursday night that if he was not the nominee he would support the nominee.

He said Wednesday that he didn't read all the "fine print" in the party oath and that if he had he might not have entered the race.

"I knew what I signed," Hayes said Thursday. "As (former Gov. Orval E.) Faubus used to say, 'Just because I said it doesn't make it so.'"

Hayes also said he did not think the Defense Department was releasing an accurate account of U.S. servicemen killed in the war in Vietnam. "I think it's more like a thousand a week," he said.

Hayes said earlier Thursday that he did not believe Arkansas servicemen in Vietnam were receiving absentee ballots for the Democratic primary.

"I'd estimate that Arkansas has about 5,000 fighting men in Vietnam," Hayes said. "I checked with the Pulaski County Circuit Clerk and he couldn't remember whether the boys got ballots or not."

A spokesman at the county clerk's office said, however, that several hundred absentee ballots had been forwarded to proper channels. She said all requests for absentee ballots had been filled.

Fulbright told newsmen that he would rank seventh in seniority in the Senate next year if returned to office.

Tooth Decay Problem Gnaws at Researchers

Supporting Wallace A Challenge

EFFECTIVE USE of animals in studying mouth disorders similar to those suffered by man has contributed greatly to dental research. This hamster is having fluorides applied to his teeth to test the chemical's decay-fighting effectiveness.

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

SUITLAND, Md.—(NEA)—The mouth is telling more these days than scientists ever thought it knew.

That's the word from the National Institute of Dental Research, where an end to dental caries (tooth decay) is predicted in the near future and where replacement teeth are being successfully implanted into gums.

"In the past, dental care has been aimed at relieving pain and restoring and replacing diseased teeth," says Dr. Paul Keyes, researcher at the institute.

"This situation has existed because the dental profession has not been able to identify satisfactorily the causes which lead to damage of the teeth and their supporting tissues."

But what was once a microbiological wasteland is, finally, grudgingly yielding the fruits of knowledge. Now the potential exists for stopping dental problems before they even start, for broader segments of the population.

By the next decade, says Dr. Seymour Kreshover, director of NIDR, it should be virtually possible to completely prevent dental caries in the United States. A Caries Task Force is being formed to speed that day, he said.

The breakthrough came, in part, with perfection of animal models and test systems which allowed researchers to better study the conditions that lead to dental disorders.

Grade school hygiene has long testified that food particles equal bacteria equal cavities. But the giant strides being made now concern just ders, pastes, mouth washes and dentifrices.

For the two-thirds of the nation that still does not have fluoridation in drinking water, a possible applicator of fluorides might be a mouthpiece containing fluoride gel, worn over the teeth for a few moments each day.

For those who lose teeth, there are also good news. Implants of plastic teeth have been placed successfully on baboons.

The plastic implant, unlike a natural tooth, does not trigger a rejection response on the part of the host's gums. Tissue forms around the tooth, and the lifelike replacements have stayed firmly in place for as long as six years, withstanding even such abuse as the baboon's penchant for gnawing on the metal bars of his cage.

For now, the big goal is preventing tooth decay. In the United States alone, an estimated 800 million cavities are in need of immediate treatment, says NIDR.

And the biggest enemy is still apathy. A regimented practice of brushing and cleaning between teeth with dental floss is still effective against the food particles and bacteria that congregate in the mouth.

"Almost all loss of teeth after age 50 in this country is due to improper cleaning," said Dr. Keyes.

what foods and just what bacteria combine to eat through tooth enamel.

Three factors co-operate to cause tooth decay, say NIDR researchers: (1) a diet high in fermentable carbohydrates, particularly sugars; (2) the presence of decay-producing bacteria; and (3) the susceptibility of the individual.

Unfortunately for teeth, the three factors are not only usually present, they also work well as a team. Attacking any one of them deals a harsh blow to caries.

With modern society's sweet tooth, complete removal of sugars from an individual's diet is highly unlikely. But fluorides, hailed by dental scientists as the greatest modern dental discovery in the fight against decay, greatly decrease susceptibility of the individual.

"Depending entirely on fluorides, however, is somewhat like depending on aspirin for headaches," said Dr. Keyes. "You may stop the pain of the headache, but you haven't found out what caused it."

So it is with fluorides, he added. They keep the acid-causing bacteria from eating into the enamel, but they don't stop the bacteria from forming on the tooth. And through the years, the bacteria may move down into the unprotected root of the tooth, with possible loss of the entire tooth as the result.

New strides in identifying the decay-producing bacteria, however, bring scientists closer to the ability to prevent these bacteria from congregating in the mouth. Possibilities include the use of antibiotics, specially treated chewing gums, adhesive pow-

WALLACE'S YOUTH CORPS is probably the best thing he has going for him. He likes to compare his clean-cut young supporters with the "unwashed and unruly" students he says are responsible for much of the nation's troubles.

TOM TIEDE
NEA Correspondent

LOWELL, Mass.—(NEA)—Pudgy, energetic Bill Hutton, a 22-year-old college junior, is one student who isn't supporting revolution this election year. Instead, he's for God, country and George Corley Wallace.

Just ask his automobile. The blue station wagon is a motorized propaganda center for Wallace conservatism. It has a second skin of sticker slogans. Some samples:

"I'm a Secret Member of the John Birch Society."

"Outlaw Criminals, not

Firearms."

"Let George Do It."

"For Christ, Not Communists."

"Put Stokely Back In a Can."

Hutton, whose only regret is that he has but one vote to give to his candidate, is obviously an uncommon political activist. Few people of any age paste 27 separate bumper posters on their motor vehicles.

But his philosophy is not entirely uncommon among young people here in the "Deep North," Hutton insists that substantial numbers of young Americans are working for Wallace. He says the fact is not generally known because "the TV and the newspapers are always too busy publicizing the New Left Liberals."

Wallace campaign officials agree.

"The newsmen always play up the students for McCarthy," says a Wallace aide.

"And, sure, all the long-haired, pimply ones are for him. But the clean-cut young people in the nation are for George Wallace."

The statement is debatable, of course, but it appears to have some foundation. Several hundred students do work directly with the Wallace campaign and very nearly all of them are clear-eyed, short-haired and proper.

Seventy of the students travel with the Wallace caravan. Pretty girls, husky boys. They have become smiles and say "yes, sir" and "thank you." They do not smoke (in public). They do not swear (in public).

They are probably the best thing Wallace has going for him. They act as his good-will ambassadors, his public relations and his moral support. Undeniably, they have won the candidate votes.

Wallace uses the youth corps wisely. One of his complaints is that "unwashed and unruly" students are responsible for much of the nation's woes and so he points instead to his freshly scrubbed, orderly supporters.

None of his young people, he indicates is dodging the draft, criticizing Vietnam, rioting on college campuses, fomenting anarchy or mugging little old ladies in the streets of the nation's cities.

Look at them, he encourages: straight backs, shining hair, hard-working and enthusiastic. Then, he adds, look at some of the other students.

Often as not, he wins his point. Recently, for example, a group of young hecklers interrupted a late evening Wallace speech. The tormentors went overboard. They hissed and used profanity. Eventually, their tactics sickened the rest of the audience.

Wallace youth, on the other hand, made no move to stop the hecklers. Acting on orders, they turned the other cheek and stood patiently to the side.

Finally the hecklers got up en masse.

"Go to hell, George!"

As they left, Wallace students politely opened the exit doors. Wallace shrugged "there go the free speech boys." And the audience was left to its own conclusion.

Nonviolence is, to be sure, an awkward art for some of the Wallace student force. They are not exactly pacifists. And, as they say: "Frankly, we'd like nothing better than to bust some of those creeps in the mouth."

But they don't. Because to do so would result in dismissal, and though the salary isn't good (most are unpaid) Wallace workers say they enjoy their jobs.

Why?

"Well," says Bill Hutton of the University of Massachusetts: "I believe in Gov. Wallace. I believe in working for a living, so does he. I believe you can't legislate love, so does he. I think he'll make a great president of this country."

Adds Jimmy Harrell, University of Alabama: "I'm sold on the governor's frankness. Every other politician just tells the audience what they want to hear. But not Gov. Wallace; he tells them exactly what he thinks."

Citizens Of Hempstead County:

For many years your Representative has been a member of the Red River Valley Association and has attended the annual association meetings at Shreveport. The realization of our dreams, after much hard work and the expenditure of personal funds by many dedicated citizens, including your Representative, was at last realized when on December 8, 1966, Millwood Dam was dedicated. It was 5 years in building at a cost of 43 million dollars.

The Millwood Reservoir has exceeded all expectations, for recreation, and as a reliable source of available water for certain cities and town in Southwest Arkansas, including Hope, Fulton and McNab, both for municipal and industrial purposes.

Most everyone in Hempstead County knows by now of the wonderful fishing at Millwood - that it is a fisherman's paradise - but also that facilities are urgently needed.

Your Representative attended in the spring, with other interested Hempstead County citizens, a meeting at the offices of the Corps of Engineers on Millwood Lake. At this meeting, also attended by citizens from Little River, Sevier and Howard Counties there was formed the Millwood Lake Improvement Association. Mr. Charles W. Wilson, of Hope, was elected President, and Judge Finis Odom, who was present and most enthusiastic in his support of recreational developments at the Lake, was elected Vice-President. The County Judges of the other counties were also elected Vice-Presidents of the Association.

Millwood Lake and Reservoir is rapidly becoming the most popular recreational area in Southwest Arkansas, as well as the finest lake in the South for sportsmen who enjoy hunting and fishing. All indications point to over 1,000,000 visitors this year.

Your Representative has actively continued his interest in Millwood and on May 6, 1968, issued the following statement which appeared in the Hope Star on that date:

"As one of the many citizens who fought for this fine lake, I feel that Hempstead County is entitled to a state park and other facilities at Millwood Lake. On the Hempstead County side at Beards Bluff is a beautiful site with paved access roads, ideal for a state park, with camping ground's, boating and lodging facilities, food, and an area for young people, especially suitable for Boy and Girl Scouts, which could exceed any other park and facilities on a lake in the Four State area.

"We are all aware of the critical need for a marina at Lake Millwood so that citizens of this county might have a place to leave their boats and have boat services. A lodge with a restaurant overlooking the lake and a sand beach for swimming are also essential. These facilities will be a wonderful asset to Hempstead County, Southwest Arkansas and the Four State Area, and will provide facilities for all ages of our people."

Realizing that State assistance was needed for the necessary developments, which should and could come through a State Park Development at Millwood your Representative had consulted with and requested a public hearing before the Parks and Publicity Commission. The following letter, under date of May 2, 1968, was received:

"Hon. Talbot Feild, Jr.
111 South Walnut Street
Hope, Arkansas 71801

Dear Representative Feild:

In further reference to our consultation concerning location and development of a state park in Hempstead County, on the east side of Millwood Lake, it is my suggestion that you and a representative group of interested citizens appear before the Publicity and Parks Commission in the Capitol Building at 1:00 p.m. on May 17, 1968. It would be well to present the urgent need for this new park and the development of a restaurant, motel and marina, with facilities for a Boy Scout and Girl Scout camp. Sincerely yours,

Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission

Bryan Stearns

Associate Director Parks"

On May 6, 1968, the following statement was issued by Mr. Charles W. Wilson:

"As President of the newly formed Millwood Lake Improvement Association, I urge all interested citizens to contact me, County Judge Finis Odom, a vice-president of the Association, or Representative Talbot Feild, Jr., concerning plans for appearing before the Publicity and Parks Commission at the State Capitol Building in Little Rock on May 17, at 1:00 p.m.

"Everyone should realize the need and be vitally interested in this improvement and development project at Millwood Lake, and it is essential that we have a good representation at the meeting with the Publicity and Parks Commission."

We had a fine delegation go up from Hempstead County and appear in the Public Hearing before the Parks and Publicity Commission. They were as follows: Associate Justice Lyle Brown, Judge Finis Odom, B. N. Holt, Homerly Beyerley, Vincent W. Foster, Warren Butler, Dale Jones, Claud Nunn, Charles W. Wilson, and your Representative, who made the presentation.

We received a splendid reception and assurance by the Commission that a State Park, with the facilities requested, would be developed at Millwood Lake and Reservoir, dependent upon the funds being provided by the 1969 regular session of the Legislature.

You may rest assured that your Representative, as Chairman of the Arkansas Legislative Council, is going to do all within his power to make certain that the necessary appropriation is recommended by the Council to the 1969 Regular Session of the Legislature and that it concur therein and provide by legislation the necessary funds.

Your Representative, as a leading candidate for the next Speaker of the House, will, as Speaker, be in a most favorable position to assist with legislation providing these funds.

Never before has Hempstead County been so favored by the present positions and potential positions of importance and influence of its Representative. I pledge you that as your Representative I will continue to represent you to the best of my ability. I will sincerely appreciate your vote and support.

50% of U.S. Wounded Fight Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 50 per cent of the American troops wounded seriously enough to be hospitalized in the Vietnam war are reassigned to fighting units, according to Pentagon statistics.

The figures show that of 51,252 hospitalized wounded in the 1965-67 period, 23,539 returned to service in Vietnam.

Of the rest, 15,006, or about 30 per cent, were assigned outside the war zone, 3,400 got disability discharges, 1,585 died and 7,722 were still in the hospital at the end of 1967.

A total of 48,565 others who suffered what is loosely termed as bandaged wounds either continued fighting or returned to duty after getting treatment from battlefield aid stations.

The percentage of wounded men leaving the war points up the policy differences among the services concerning the reassignment of men wounded during the fighting.

A Navy man or a Marine, for example, may be shipped out of the war zone for good if he is twice wounded, both requiring 48 hours or more in the hospital. The Army has a much tougher policy. A soldier can be laid up nearly two months and still go back to the war when he is fit.

The Air Force has virtually no policy at all except in the case of serious wounds.

The Pentagon says the decision on casualty reassignments is left to each service because of their varied manpower needs. There is no plan to standardize the policies, a spokesman said.

Here are the specific service guidelines:

Navy and Marine Corps: Those serving in or off Vietnam who get two wounds requiring 48 hours or more hospitalization are reassigned away from Vietnam. Three wounds make reassignment automatic.

Army: No specific number of wounds entitles a man to reassignment. A soldier who is wounded twice or more in combat is, if physically qualified, reported to Saigon headquarters for possible transfer.

However, reassignment is not automatic and military requirements remain the overriding consideration, the Pentagon says.

If a soldier is hospitalized for 30 days or less he stays in Vietnam and is later returned to duty there.

"If the prognosis indicates more than 60 days will be required for recovery, wounded personnel are evacuated to a U.S. military hospital located in the Pacific area and returned to duty in Vietnam," the Pentagon says.

Only when the prognosis indicates more than 60 days hospitalization is a wounded man evacuated to a hospital in the continental U.S. and not returned to Vietnam.

Air Force: As in the Army no specific number of wounds automatically get an airman out of Vietnam. The general policy is that those who are wounded seriously enough to be evacuated from Vietnam don't have to go back.

FBI Marks 60th Year of Founding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation, born almost out of desperation and mired in its early years in political problems, is 60 years old today.

But the bureau planned no celebration. For the FBI's 16,000 employees it was just another work day.

Although the FBI of 1968 is one of the most controversial, efficient and—some say—powerful government agencies, it was founded almost as a desperation move July 16, 1908, by then Atty. Gen. Charles J. Bonaparte.

The Justice Department had been borrowing investigators from the Treasury Department's Secret Service to collect evidence for cases, but Congress prohibited that practice on May 27, 1908, and an independent agency was set up.

When Hoover—then 29—took over in 1924 the agency had become mired in the administration of political hacks.

Sole Endorsement in Campaign Is for Fulbright

Former Gov. Orval Faubus is confused over the Arkansas gubernatorial campaign, as he confesses today, then a mere newspaper editor needn't apologize for refusing to take a public stand.

Our sole endorsement in the primary election next Tuesday goes to Senator J. W. (Bill) Fulbright. The senatorial campaign offers issues which the gubernatorial race hasn't been able to come up with, and therefore an editorial discussion is in order.

Your editor was chairman of the county committee which backed John L. McClellan in his initial Senate victory in 1942. And the same committee backed Bill Fulbright when he made his debut in 1944. I have never had regrets over either choice.

In 1944 a Hope man asked how I could support the conservative McClellan in 1942 and only two years later come out for the liberal Fulbright. My reply was plain: We support a good man for public office — and then he is on his own. You can't expect him always to vote your own views.

What you do expect is that he will gather information while in office and vote for what appears to him to be in the best interests of our state and country.

McClellan follows my thinking more often than Fulbright does. But that's the very reason you need men of diverse views in public office — you are guaranteed that both sides of every question will be heard.

I disagree with Fulbright on Vietnam. But he's an informed person of unquestioned knowledge and integrity, and the American people have been wrong on international affairs so many times they would only look foolish if they persisted in resenting a knowledgeable senator's right to dissent.

Fulbright's public position only reflects the shouting that goes on in the coffee shops as the best of friends disagree over what's good for America — but still remain friends — while the passage of time determines who happened to be right.

Right or wrong, Bill Fulbright has made himself a world-famous figure — one of Arkansas' own — and common sense tells you we should continue this courageous and dedicated man in the United States Senate.

Fire Wipes Out Block in Cave City

CAVE CITY, Ark. (AP) — Fire that raged out of control nearly two hours this morning destroyed nearly a block of this small northeast Arkansas town of 600.

Six businesses were destroyed but quick response from the Batesville Fire Department and Cave City volunteer firemen saved three other firms on the block, including the Bank of Cave City.

Some 60 persons fought the blaze, although they were limited to use of a single pumper fire truck and two hoses because of low water pressure.

The blaze was believed to have started in Reed's Coin-Mat Laundry and spread to Sug's Dress Shop, the Sharp County Guard Co., James' Grocery, Woodridge Hardware and Miller's Barber Shop.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage in terms of dollars.

Ask Removal of School Age Limits

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A spokesman for the Youth Committee of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women said Thursday the group would push for approval of a proposed amendment which would abolish age restrictions on public education.

Marty Thompson of Little Rock, spokesman for the committee, said Arkansas was the only state which has maintained restrictions of age on public education.

The ballot for the Nov. 5 general election will include proposed Amendment 53 which would permit schools to provide education for persons over 21 and under six. The amendment, however, would not make the education mandatory.

Top Steel Labor Body Summoned

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A United Steelworkers committee that can ratify a contract or call a strike has been summoned to Pittsburgh on Monday—just two days before 388,000 men will be free to walk out of the mills.

The union is not saying which is expected. President I. W. Abel would say only that the 600-man group, called the basic steel industry conference, will hear a report on the negotiations.

"These negotiations are like a poker game," said one local union president who has been attending them for 20 years. "You can't tip your hand until the last minute. The pot might always go either way."

The talks have been so secret that only a handful of union officials know what is in the pot, or whether there is a pot at all. The last time Abel talked to the basic steel industry conference 10 days ago he said the industry had made no offers on wages, pensions, vacations, job security, incentives and other big-money items.

The response was a strike vote. All the formal machinery is in place for the seventh steel strike since World War II. If the union conferences does not ratify a contract on Monday, the mills will have to begin closing down, a delicate process that takes up to 48 hours.

Split Looms in Ranks of Czechs

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer
BRATISLAVA (AP) — Czechoslovak leaders, awaiting decisive talks with the Soviet Communist party Politburo, were urged by pacemakers of this country's liberalization drive today to "defend unitedly the road on which we have started and which we will not leave alive."

The appeal came amid mounting concern over rumors that the leadership was split on how to react to Soviet pressure at the showdown meeting likely to be begin next week.

The rumors were fed by the decision Thursday of the policy-making party presidium to remove Lt. Gen. Vaclav Prchlik, a chief target of Soviet attacks, from a key position in the party Central Committee.

The presidium ordered Prchlik back to army service and abolished the political department of the party which he headed. It controlled the army, security police and judiciary.

This was an apparent move to conciliate the Kremlin. The Russian propaganda war against the Czechoslovak leadership continued unabated. The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda attacked the departures from orthodox communism.

Quickest Way to Go Broke? Boyle Replies: Start a Restaurant

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — It is said that the quickest way to go broke in America is to open a restaurant.

This is because practically everyone feels that he can run one, and a lot of people try. The facts of business life, however, are that no other industry has a higher failure rate.

"There are tremendous elements of chance," acknowledged Jerome Brody, who at 45 has operated not one but two chains of successful restaurants. "It makes ordinary gambling look like kid stuff."

"You can start a restaurant with two bucks and a key and build it into a profitable company, or you can put a million dollars into one and blow it all in six months."

It's the beginning of a three-day centennial program, and also marks a century of building for Christ for the local church which was founded 100 years ago three miles from town, and later moved to Hope.

The program:
7:00 p.m. July 26, church-wide picnic at Fair Park, Dr. John H. McClanahan, guest speaker.
7:30 p.m. July 27, pageant of church history in church sanctuary.

10:45 a.m. July 28, morning worship service with Dr. Wallace R. Rogers as guest speaker.
7:00 p.m. July 28, evening worship service with Dr. S. A. Whitlow, guest speaker, with an informal get-together in Fellowship Hall following the pulpit address.

Brothers Disagree on War; One Goes, But Other Refuses

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — One brother, a U.S. Marine lieutenant, is going to Vietnam for combat duty. The other brother opposes the Vietnam war and has refused induction into the U.S. Army. The parents? They back both of their sons.

Mrs. Leland Swenson, mother of Lt. Duncan Swenson and his brother, Richard, has mixed emotions as does her husband, a physician.

"I respect both," Mrs. Swenson said, recalling that Duncan had misgivings about the war but enlisted and volunteered for officer candidate school. "I am grateful to him and all our young men who lay their lives on the line as their duty to their country."

Richard, the other son, she says, "is involved in a larger war, also laying his life on the line for he faces prison and other consequences no one knows."

Mrs. Swenson's comments on the Vietnam war, which she has described as "one of the most depraved and obscene wars in history," were made in a letter to the editor of the Muskegon Chronicle.

The newspaper had published an account of Richard Swenson's antidraft stand, his views and his participation in an Ann Arbor group that opposes the Selective Service system.

Reached in Ann Arbor Thursday, Swenson said he did not know his draft status after having refused induction July 18 at Detroit's Fort Wayne Induction Center. "The lieutenant said it's up to the district attorney's office," Swenson said. He said he had not been contacted by his Ann Arbor board.

Lawrence Gubow, U.S. attorney for the eastern district of Michigan, said Thursday that such cases are returned by the Army to local boards who then forward them to state Selective Service offices. Gubow said the state offices do not automatically refer all cases to federal officers for prosecution.

The younger Swenson faces the possibility of prosecution, conviction and prison.

"I don't know, maybe what I'm doing is the wrong way. It's a gamble. Only time will tell if I'm right," he said.

"I'm not sure I'm in favor of his action," said Dr. Swenson of his son's stand. "The war is bad, but I wonder... but we both respect his action and will support him any way we can."

Edward Kennedy Out of V.P. Race

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., took himself out of any consideration for the Democratic vice presidential nomination today with a statement saying "for me, this year, it is impossible."

Kennedy, last survivor of four Kennedy sons, said in a statement that his decision "is final, firm and not subject to further consideration." Kennedy said he is removing himself from consideration because of family responsibilities resulting from the assassination of his brother Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., last month.

The Massachusetts senator, in a four-paragraph statement, said he will speak out, however, on "foreign and domestic policies our party must pursue if it is to be successful in the coming election."

He said he appreciated the confidence of Democrats who have proposed him for the national ticket and "under normal circumstances such a possibility would be a high honor and a challenge to further public service."

Kennedy added, "My reasons are purely personal. They arise from the change in my personal situation and responsibilities as a result of the events of last month. I know that the members of the Democratic Party will understand these reasons without further elaboration."

"I have informed the Democratic candidates for the presidency and the chairman of the convention that I will not be able to accept the vice presidential nomination if offered and that my decision is final, firm and not subject to further consideration."

The Massachusetts senator has been at his Hyannis Port home since last Monday conferring with his family and close advisers.

The statement was issued through his Boston office. A spokesman said there would be no further comment on it.

Kennedy's statement reflected the tremendous pressure he apparently had been under to accept the second spot on the Democratic November election ballot.

Only Thursday, Chicago Mayor Richard Daley said he had talked with the Massachusetts senator and that Kennedy had said "maybe."

Ouachita Valley Group to Meet

A social hour will be held for members and registered guests at 6:00 p.m., followed by a dinner served at 7:00 p.m. There will be musical entertainment and a guest speaker not yet announced.

The Monday, August 19, agenda beginning at 9:30 a.m. will include taking care of the Association's unfinished business and addresses by members of the Congress and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and others.

According to H. K. Thatcher, Executive Vice President of ORVA, Camden, Arkansas, about 125 members are expected to attend. Many members will bring their wives and families.

Also, many other visitors are expected to register and attend. All people interested in the development and use of the water resources in Louisiana and Arkansas are especially invited.

Tough Racial Mobs Demand Still Tougher Tactics, Is Opinion

By AUSTIN SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland's peacekeeping civilians helped disperse Negro crowds by telling them police were looking for an excuse to shoot up their neighborhoods. Are such strong tactics really necessary?

The consensus of the volunteers, both militants and moderates, is that they are. Potentially unruly residents speak their own language, they say, and as Romie Stephens, a corporation executive, put it: "When in France, speak French."

Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes, who approved the plan, said the main peacekeeping problem was getting crowds off the streets. And the crowds the patrol was worried about were teen-agers.

Just how hard it is was illustrated Wednesday night in a series of shouting, nose-to-nose confrontations by Stephens and others with a group of about 50 youngsters bent on looting a still undamaged record shop.

They were openly discussing what to take first when patrol members arrived.

"I know it ain't gonna do no good to tell you to go home," one patrol member shouted to a slender youth who had been egging others on. "I told you to go home two hours ago over on Superior Avenue and you ain't gone yet. But if you won't think of nothin' else, please don't get these women and children in trouble."

"Man, the cops ain't gonna get me," the kid boasted, not yet understanding the drift of the argument.

"The cops won't get you and they won't get me," Stephens cut in. "They'll come in here... and they'll shoot up some innocent sister or brother who ain't done nothing... You know they're just itchin' for the chance."

That stopped the youth for a moment, and Stephens pressed his advantage, playing also to the crush of other youths who had crowded around to listen.

"Black nationalists are supposed to love black people," he said. "If you love black people, you won't throw their lives away."

"Our lives don't mean nothin' to the white man," another said.

Portia, Pop. 375, Up in Arms Over Plan to Kill Post Office

By TOMMY YATES

PORTIA, Ark. (AP) — The residents of this little Northeast Arkansas town feel like they have their backs to the wall, but they still are swinging away in a fight to keep their Post Office.

"The whole town is in an uproar," said former Mayor M.A. Scudder.

Portia had a population of 375 when the 1960 census was taken and it seems all those old enough to write have signed petitions and written letters to their representatives in Washington.

The Portia Post Office is one of 347 that the Post Office Department is closing in August as an economy move.

Scudder and apparently the whole town, however, can't understand it, and they are nagged by the big question of why?

"I wouldn't be surprised if it's power politics," Scudder said.

The Town Council has sent a resolution to Postmaster General Marvin Watson, who is a native of a small town in East Texas, urging that the Post Office be left where it is.

The resolution said that postal receipts during the last year had been more than $19,000 and that there was a long waiting list for the 50 mail boxes in the Post Office.

As proof of Portia's progress, the resolution cited a new waterworks system and a $10,000 surplus in the city treasury. It also said there isn't a vacant building in town.

They were openly discussing what to take first when patrol members arrived.

Recall Guard in Cleveland Race Riots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sporadic racial violence erupted Thursday night in four areas ranging from Erie, Pa., to Seattle, Wash., with Cleveland and Chicago again the major targets.

Reversing his policy of trying to let black community leaders control the situation, Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes reinstated a dusk-to-dawn curfew in Cleveland's Negro slums. It was enforced by National Guardsmen and white police.

There were 30 arrests—two for looting, one for arson and 27 for curfew violation. Several small fires broke out on the East Side where 10 persons, including three policemen, were killed in shootings Tuesday.

Meanwhile, merchants and police differed on protection supplied in the troubled area.

One merchant charged that his store was looted while two Negro policemen watched. But some Negro policemen claim that merchants, after removing valuable items, allowed gangs to loot their stores so they could collect insurance.

In Chicago, a North Side supermarket, which has been the scene of previous incidents again was vandalized, and store windows were smashed in suburban Maywood after police used tear gas to break up a demonstration at the village hall.

The disturbance in Maywood, an integrated city 15 miles west of Chicago's downtown section, followed a meeting of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Police said about 300 Negro youths marched to the village hall where the village board was meeting. After police used tear gas to disperse them, the youths moved to the downtown section where they smashed windows, overturned park benches and hurled objects at passing vehicles, slightly injuring ten persons.

Twenty five persons were arrested.

Congressman Rapped for Postal Vote

Hardy Croxton, Democratic Nominee for Third District Congressman, today charged that Republican Congressman Hammer-schmidt voted for the bill to cut back personnel of the Post Office Department to the 1966 level, and such action on his part is partly responsible for the necessity of curtailing postal services, including Saturday deliveries.

Mr. Croxton stated that Hammer-schmidt had previously leveled an attack at the Postmaster General, holding him responsible for a meat-axe approach toward curtailing postal services, and that such action on his part was arbitrary and a breach of faith with the people.

Mr. Croxton stated that he would remind the people that the Post Office Department was compelled to cut back, by the law that Mr. Hammer-schmidt helped pass, and that if there was a breach of faith, it was Mr. Hammer-schmidt's not leveling with the people. Mr. Croxton stated that it was not a question of money, that the Post Office Department had the money, but the law the Congressman took credit for demands a personnel cutback, and therefore a Saturday closing of the post offices. Mr. Croxton charges that his opponent voted without considering the effect of the bill for which he now complains, and that Mr. Hammer-schmidt's technique is to blame the Government for that which is bad and take credit for that which is good. It is this sort of double talk that has made people disgusted with politics.
